Latest painting reflects “Smooth Sailing” journey

“A smooth sea never made a skilled mariner.”
- English proverb

As much as we would all like to have a smooth sailing life, the reality is that it simply isn't possible. A peaceful life is a hope, a dream. It is wishful thinking. And yet, that's just what this latest 24" x 36" "Smooth Sailing" acrylic painting is meant to depict. It's of a stylized bird sailing peacefully through skies of blue. If you're interested in purchasing this piece, contact me at Suzette@SuzetteBoulais.com.

April showers bring May flowers

Looking for a cheery set of Spring notecards? My Spring tulip reaching toward the sunlight is on special this month - only $1.75 per card.

Watch, bid and buy at WTVP TV

As a firm believer in public television, it is an honor to donate pieces of art to the WTVP TV 47 auction from year to year.

To the right is the 16" x 20" piece I donated to this year's auction. I was pleased to hear a buyer came along who watched, bid and bought this original painting.
