New artwork on display at Studios on Sheridan

My friend Gail just moved back to Peoria after having lived in a number of cities over the past twenty years such as Indianapolis, Las Vegas, and Phoenix. When she mentioned that coming home to Peoria was like coming back to her pod, I was inspired. As a welcome home gift to her, I painted this piece in various water colors, titling it, "This Peep Has Found Its Pod." Right now the painting is on display at Studios on Sheridan art gallery in Peoria. Once Gail is all settled in, this piece will go on one of the walls in her new home.

Saving no drama for Obama

No, this isn't a Photoshop image. It's the real deal. I was lucky enough to meet President Obama in August of 2011 when he visited the small town of Alpha, Illinois, during a bus tour of the Midwest last summer.

Suzette's art at CAC

My colleague William Butler at the Contemporary Art Center had a recent callout for art contributions to the CAC Fine Art Auction last month and I was happy to respond. My contribution to his auction is the painting to the right, "Certain As The Sun." Something I never get tired of painting is the sun and rays of light since these are such hopeful and optimistic symbols.
