Suzette's Artwork is Somewhere "Out There"

Recently, my friend, Paul Adams, musician, composer, and recording artist, had stopped by my ArtsPartners office when he noticed one of my paintings nearby. "Your paintings always take me somewhere else," he casually remarked. "Your art is out there in a nice way."

Paul is right. Many of my paintings take on a cosmic flavor and feel. They are meant to take you "somewhere else." Many times, as I paint, I am thinking of a far off distant place where there is no pain or loss, but happiness and light. That's why I often paint moons off on the horizon and stars up in the heavens.

This piece, Christmas Moon, takes on a similar cosmic feel.

The two lines at the bottom left of the painting represent two human figures looking up and wishing on that Christmas Moon. Like me, they are hoping that one day the Christmas message will really come true - that one day peace will guide the planets and love will steer the stars.

If you would like to commission an original piece, email me at Suzette@SuzetteBoulais.com.

Many hours have been spent painting notecards in my artroom where I've been getting ready to kick off the holiday season. If you would like some of my originally designed notecards for the holidays, order now.

Also, if you would like to purchase one of my original paintings, stop by the Town Gallery on Second Street in downtown Chillicothe between December 4 - January 31. My work will be on display along with a variety of other local artists.
