Joseph Campbell honored in Suzette's latest painting

After fifty years of teaching and more than twenty books, author Joseph Campbell felt that his contribution to life was engaging the imagination beyond the visible one where inspiration guides us and shapes our lives. In his role as a mythologist, Campbell studied the Egyptian mysteries, the Iliad and the Odyssey, the Arthurian romances, the American Indian myths, Hinduism, Buddhism, and Christianity, as well as such modern myth-makers as James Joyce, Thomas Mann, and Pablo Picasso and found connections between all them symbolically, metaphorically, and soulfully.

He questions each of us, "Are you going to go on the creative soul's quest or are you going to pursue the life that only gives you security? Are you going to follow the star of the zeal of your own enthusiasm? Are you going to live the myth or is the myth going to live you?"

Having been a student of Joseph Campbell's writings for years and knowing that the circle is most associated with him because it depicts his attraction to the unity of life, I titled the image to the right, "Honoring Joseph Campbell."

Logos prominently displayed at event

The concert held at the Peoria Civic Center last month to celebrate the 30th Anniversary of Dan Fogelberg's "The Innocent Age" album was a hit and so were my logos. Seen throughout the weekend was the Ever On t-shirt logo I designed for the occasion along with the Fogelberg Foundation logo that graced the Peoria Civic Center stage at the onset of Saturday night's concert.

For us Fogelberg fans, it was all Fogelberg all weekend long, much to our delight.

Times are a changin'

Let's just say times really are changing when your friend Carol contacts you to design a "Civil Union" card for two male friends who are getting hitched.

Here's my design: His and His towels hanging on the towel rack. If you are going to a Civil Union any time soon and need a card, forget Hallmark. Contact me. Cards are only $2.25 a piece or $22 for a set of 12.
